Mumbai: BMC official among 15 arrested in raid at dance bar in Colaba

Mumbai A 27-year-old man from Madhya Pradesh allegedly took at least four travel portals for a ride by booking over 1,500 air tickets without paying a single penny in the last two years. Rajpratap Parmar, who was arrested on Tuesday along with two of his relatives from Datia, made around Rs 2 crore in the process, said the police.

After discovering an alleged loophole in the payment gateway system of the portals, Parmar — a Class XII passout approached several travel agencies across the country and provided them air tickets at 80 per cent of the rates available in the market.The alleged scam was unearthed when a Mumbai-based man booked air tickets for Goa. When he took a printout of the air tickets, he realised that the mobile number and email address mentioned on the ticket did not belong to him. Also, the amount that he had paid and the one mentioned on the ticket was different.Suspecting that his details may have been compromised, the man submitted written complaints to unit 7 of the Mumbai Crime Branch. During investigation, unit VII in charge Satish Taware and Inspector N Sridhankar found out about the scam. An officer probing the case said that nearly two years ago, Parmar, who hails from Datia in MP, discovered a loophole in some of the travel portal payment gateways.

"Parmar would accept travel bookings from agents across the country. While filling in the person's details online, he would enter an incorrect mobile number and email address to ensure that the person does not receive any alert. He would then enter his card details and continue with the transaction till he had to select between the submit and cancel payment options," he added."At this point, he would click on cancel and press escape several times to freeze the page. He would then tinker with the URL and write 'success' in the URL address bar to show that he had clicked on submit. He then copy-pasted the link to another tab and pressed enter. The system would think the payment has been authorised and generate tickets without Parmar actually having made any payment," the officer said.

Parmer approached travel agencies through two of his relatives — Pransingh Parmar (48) and Raghvendra Singh (38) —

Mumbai: After 'zero' salary, BMC employees get deducted pay

Prafulata Dalwi of MMU said on Wednesday: "Majority of the employees who had faced deduction were from Class IV category. Finally, the administration accepted our demand of paying the full salary."

Mumbai .Days after receiving "zero" salary for the month April, 20,000 BMC employees received the deducted salary amount on Wednesday.

Blaming the deduction on glitches in the biometric system, while most of such employees had alleged that they were on election duty in April, others had claimed that their official leaves were not adjusted while calculating the salary amount. In all, salaries were deducted from around 70,000 employees — ranging from Class IV workers to deputy municipal commissioner-rank officers.

The Municipal Mazdoor Union (MMU) threatened agitation if full salary was not paid to the employees.

A senior BMC official said, "Considering no salary was paid and heavy deduction, as of now, the attendance of the employees has been updated on the system and we have paid the amount. However, all records of leaves will be checked and adjustment made in the salary for May."
